

FROM WASHINGTON.

[Special Correspondence of the Alexandria Gazette.]
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 9, 1891.

Mr. John Goode, who lately added greatly to his reputation as a jury lawyer by his effective defense of young Hains at Hampton, Virginia, has recently purchased a home in his old county, Bedford, Virginia, and will, he says, when traveling hereafter, register at Bedford, and not as heretofore, at Norfolk. He says he is out of politics now, and when the courts take their summer recess will go to Bedford and enjoy life with his children and grandchildren.

Col. L. Q. Washington, who presided at the meeting recently held in Fredericksburg to promote the removal of the remains of the late U. S. Senator R. M. T. Hunter from Essex county to Richmond, and to erect a monument over them, says the determination then agreed upon to accomplish the desired object by a company chartered by the State would be materially assisted by contributions before the legislature shall meet.

Mr. James E. Clements of Alexandria county, here to-day, says the iron has been laid on almost the whole of that part of the Washington and Arlington Railroad, which has been graded. There is a slight temporary suspension of the grading near the Arlington reservation in consequence of a difference between the contractors and the land owners in respect of the route of the road. Mr. Clements says the democrats of the county are naturally sorry that a county man was not nominated for the House of Delegates by the convention in Alexandria yesterday, but that they accept the result with grace, say the nomination is satisfactory, and will support it to the hilt, and that those who heard Mr. Bondheim's speech were very much pleased with it.

Capt. Robert E. Lee, brother of General W. H. F. Lee, is here this afternoon. He is just from the bedside of his brother. He says the General's condition to-day is better than it has been since last Saturday, that he now takes interest not only in the character, but in the quantity of his rations, and yesterday he gave directions about some private business. Dr. Harrison of this city is in constant attendance upon him.

Ex-Congressman John Ambler Smith of Virginia, now of this city, who recently had a difficulty in Alexandria with Constable Sipple of that city, about some furniture belonging to Capt. A. Greenman, seized by the constable, says he has been back to Alexandria, kissed Sipple and made up with him.

At the Methodist eccumenical conference now in session in this city it was stated yesterday that in this country there are now 54,711 Methodist churches; ministers, 31,765, and communicants, 4,980,240.

The President, Secretary Foster, Postmaster General Wauamaker and Mr. Carson, the latter now a pronounced Harrison man, held a conference at the White House yesterday in reference to the time and place of holding the next national republican convention and to the best means of a currency reorganization for Mr. Harrison without any opposition.

President Polk of the Farmer's Alliance is here to-day. He says he doesn't know what all the individual members of that organization say on the subject, but that the organization has as yet taken no definite action in reference to the formation of a third party, and that no body will be authorized to speak for the Alliance on that subject until the convention to be held next February shall have met. When asked if neither of the two present parties should agree to accept the Omaha platform, would a new party be organized, he replied that he did not know.

Mr. Versey, a member of the Old Dominion Republican League of this city, under indictment for violating the civil service law by collecting political assessments for Gen. Mahone's campaign, a precisely similar offense to that committed by Congressman Wadsworth of New York last week, says he has been informed by the U. S. Attorney for this district that his case will be called up at the coming term of the District Court here. Other people say the case will not be called, as the prosecution up to this time has been suspended by order of the President, and that of course he will not have it tried now, when every federal office holder in the country is being called upon for the payment of political assessments.

The following charges in the 4th class courts of Virginia were made to-day: Meadows of Dan, Patrick county, J. C. Chukley applied postmaster vice H. M. Spangler, resigned; Mira Fork, Floyd county, W. E. Waska, vice J. H. Stuehr, removed.

A Tammany Hall democrat, here to-day, one who does not like Mr. Cleveland and who has heretofore been opposed to him, says his speech at the Flower ratification meeting in New York last night will be worth ten thousand votes to the democratic ticket.

The Maryland democratic club of this city, recently organized, met last night and elected Frank Guy president and Messrs. Lancaster and Dixon vice presidents. Their headquarters are in the rooms over Milburn's drug store on Pennsylvania avenue, near 15th street.

Major W. W. Ashby, of Spotsylvania county, Virginia, is among the many applicants for the consulship at London. He has the endorsement of the leaders of both wings of the republican party in his State.

Virginia Medical Society.

At yesterday's session of the Virginia Medical Society in Lynchburg the treasurer's report was submitted, showing a most healthy state of finances. Scientific questions were resumed and papers on a number of subjects were read and discussed. A committee was appointed to take the necessary steps to bring before the Legislature the matter of establishing an infirmary asylum. After the adjournment of the night's session the members of the society repaired to Callahan's Hall, where an elegant banquet was served and the greater part of the night was spent feasting and socializing, after which the society adjourned sine die.

At Wednesday's session of the Society Dr. George W. Wiley, of Abingdon, offered a resolution that a committee of five be appointed to petition the Legislature of Virginia to enact a law allowing a sum not less than $25 to every regular practitioner of medicine who may be summoned to testify as an expert before any court in this State. Dr. Hugo Taylor, of Richmond; Apperson, of Marion; Pedigo, of Roscoe, and Dr. Slaughter spoke briefly in advocacy of the resolution, and it was adopted.

On motion $50 out of any unappropriated funds was awarded Dr. Hiden, of Manassas, to reimburse him for the prosecution of a "quack" in that vicinity.

Dr. Slaughter introduced a resolution from the Fairfax Medical Society to the effect that hereafter members shall be admitted only upon the recommendation of county or city medical societies; involving a change in the constitution and by-laws. It was laid over under the rule until the next session.

Dr. Slaughter offered a resolution that the Medical Society of Virginia foster by every means the encouragement of local societies. This was adopted.

The validity of the new constitution of Kentucky is to be contested on the ground that numerous changes were made after the instrument was ratified by the people.

POLITICAL.

A call has been issued for a meeting of the republican national committee in Washington on the 23d of November next to decide on time and place for holding the republican national convention and to act on the resignation of Chairman Quay.

The democratic campaign in Baltimore was opened last night by an immense mass-meeting in Monument Square. The political clubs turned out in force and paraded the streets with torchlight. Senator Gorman, Mr. Frank Brown, the candidate for Governor, and the other State candidates made speeches at the meeting.

Mr. Cleveland presided over a mass-meeting of democrats in Cooper Union Hall last night, to ratify nominations made at the Saratoga convention. Tumultuous applause greeted the appearance of the democratic ex-President who made an earnest speech in which he set forth, with clearness, the issues dividing the two great parties, and urged the importance of continuing aggressive work to confirm and extend the advantage gained in last fall's elections. In a few crisp paragraphs he stated the case of the people against the republican party in its administration of national affairs, and warned the New York democracy against being led away by the efforts of their opponents to shift the discussion from the national abuses for which the latter are responsible to irrelevant side issues. His endorsement of Mr. Flower was cordial and hearty, and his speech throughout was a vigorous assertion of democratic principles.

At the conclusion of Mr. Cleveland's speech, Mr. Hill appeared, and turning to him with a bow and then to the audience, Mr. Cleveland said he had now to perform a work of usefulness and supererogation, but he did not think it necessary to say more, and he could not say less, than that Gov. Hill was there. Gov. Hill was greeted by an outburst of applause similar to and as prolonged as that which Mr. Cleveland received. He spoke principally on the tariff. At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Cleveland and Governor Hill were escorted out through the crowd and were driven to the residence of the ex-President.

As stated in the GAZETTE the joint debate between Governor Campbell and Major McKinley took place yesterday at Ada, Ohio. Fully 12,000 people heard the speech. The audience was about equally divided between the two political parties, and the best of order was maintained. Both speakers were liberally applauded, and at the conclusion three cheers were given for both. Governor Campbell caused a sensation when he spoke of the starving wives and children of the miners while the monopolists were rolling in wealth. Governor Campbell read from the records of Bradstreet's commercial statistics showing the business failures in the last year, and great laughter was caused when he asked Major McKinley where that business was that he had promised when his bill should pass Congress. When Gov. Campbell asked any laboring man in the audience who had had his wages raised since the passage of the McKinley bill to rise to his feet, and none arose, a storm of applause swept over the audience, and this was repeated over the assertion that there were no trusts in the last tariff days of democracy.

Mr. McKinley received an ovation when he arose to reply to Campbell's speech; but a murmur of dissatisfaction was heard when he branched out on a discussion of the silver question and did not at once answer the Governor's speech on the tariff. A loud cheer went up when McKinley asserted that "Campbell and I once voted together in Congress against the free and unlimited coinage of silver."

Gov. Campbell in concluding his address said: "I cannot most heartily wish Major McKinley that this is the greatest and best and proudest nation on earth. But, unlike him, I would distribute that greatness and that wealth as God distributes the dew of heaven 'upon the unjust as well as the just.' (Prolonged applause and cheers.) I depicted the condition of the farmer, and the answer of the Major is not only that I am a calamity croaker, but in the words of somebody else, 'you must grumble.' (Laughter.) 'You findlay glass-workers who have had your master wages raised, you steel-workers of Cleveland who have had your pitance further cut down, you must not grumble, because your poverty adds to some other man's wealth. (Cheers; a voice, 'Give it to him.') I will take care of him now if you will just let me alone. (Laughter.) This is a good-natured fellow, for we are both good men. However, as only one of us can be good, and I have already, why, put it on (Great laughter.) (Great laughter.) The major has not pointed out one wage-worker as I requested him, in all this broad land, who has had his wages raised on account of the McKinley bill. (Applause.) The republican song this year is, 'With sugar and tin we are sure to win.' (Laughter.) They take the tariff off sugar to make it cheap and they put it on tin to make it dear. (Great laughter.) But no sugar was ever yet able to ride two horses going in different directions without falling to the ground. (Renewed laughter.) I will ask whether sugar was not reduced by the Mills bill and whether in the Ways and Means Committee, when the question was up for discussion, he did not oppose any reduction in sugar?"

The new Russian loan was quoted on the Paris Bourse yesterday at a premium of 9-16. It is believed that the entire loan will be covered in Paris alone several times.

Bartley Ellis, of Wigan, Eng., yesterday followed his daughter, who had eloped with a young man named Arthur Mottram, aboard a White Star steamship which was about to sail from Queenstown for New York and dragged the girl from her companion to the amusement of the passengers. THE PENITENTIARY.—One hundred and three of the convicts who have been working on the Warm Spring Valley railroad have been returned to the penitentiary. Nine of the men escaped some time ago. Three of them were recaptured, two of whom are now in custody in West Virginia. After escaping from this State the runaways committed burglary in West Virginia, and the authorities there propose to hold them for that crime. The contractors, who have to pay a heavy forfeit for every man who gets away, have written to Governor McKinley asking him to make a requisition for the convicts upon the Governor of West Virginia.

Monday there were 1,138 convicts within the penitentiary, the largest number ever known. To accommodate these there were just 150 cells, in some of which as many as twenty-five men are locked. The Board of Directors are, however, using all efforts in their power to facilitate the erection of an additional story to the building.

The ghost at the White House is said to walk half of every night, but he could do double that amount of work if he wasn't afraid of the morning air, and knew that Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup cures all kinds of troublesome coughs and colds.

She stood at the gate in the late fall twilight, and when the good-bye, she felt neutralized between two loves; but the only smile, as she had said, "Oh, my greatest cure on earth for pain."

Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup is said to be the greatest cure on earth for pain.

The famous murder case of Dr. John A. P. Baker is before Hon. John A. ## A CARD.

To the Editor of the Alexandria Gazette: If you will permit me, I will add to the report I have read in the Gazette of the convention of Delegates to nominate a candidate for the House of Delegates this year: When Mr. Bondheim was escorted to the platform after his nomination, Messrs. May and Douglas were invited to a seat on the platform, and after Mr. Bondheim's address of thanks, &c., to the convention for the honor conferred upon him, Mr. W. W. Douglas, in a very appropriate speech, congratulated Mr. Bondheim upon his success, and promised he would not only give him his vote in November, but would do all he could to secure his election. Now is regard to what I read in the report as to the action of the delegates from the county, I can only speak for myself, but I have no doubt the others felt as I did, and that was, that I had done what I could for Mr. Bondheim, and that I would stand by him to the end. I would not say this was done as a duty, because it shows Mr. Bondheim that he can count on all democrats to support him in November. In my opinion, all good democrats will vote for the nominee of a democratic convention, and for this reason Mr. Bondheim ought to poll a large vote, as he ought to get all the votes that Mr. Hume had, as I did, to nominate Mr. Bondheim unanimously. I say this was done as a duty, because it shows Mr. Bondheim that he can count on all democrats to support him in November.
